College Report

September 1976 / Volume 29, Number 7

A New Voice . . .

Lycoming's eleventh president arrived in Williamsport early in July about the time the whole country was celebrating its 200th Birthday. It seems longer ago than twelve weeks--the celebrations at Valley Forge, Philadelphia and those beautiful tall ships in New York harbor. But in that short time, Lycoming College has heard a new voice--the calm, precise, optimistic and determined voice of Dr. Frederick E. Blumer.

He spoke to freshman orientation groups soon after he arrived. He has since spoken to a freshman convocation, to a dinner meeting of the Associates of Lycoming and College Trustees, to the campus leaders conference, to the faculty, and others. We want you to know some of what he has said, realizing that lifting statements out of context can be risky and sometimes misleading.

We're going to take that risk. To the freshmen, Dr. Blumer had this to say:

. . . They (colleges) exist primarily to perform an academic function. But there are always a few who expect them to be more like country clubs than anything else. And, unfortunately, there are even a few faculty and staff who would subordinate scholarship to extra-curricular activities. But I hope most of you came here to learn and that you will keep that objective in the forefront of your minds as you enjoy the rest.

It is amazing how false expectations almost guarantee disappointment and failure. Some come to college expecting it to be like a grocery store, failing to understand that there is no way to sell learning or to merchandise insight. Your teachers aren't salesmen. They are midwives, as Socrates observed, who assist in the birth of ideas! So don't expect new knowledge to be dispensed to you like chewing gum from a vending machine. Remember that only you can think your thoughts, and until you think them through, many ideas will remain mysteries to you.

Eight New Faculty Join the Teaching Staff

Eight new members have been appointed to the Lycoming College faculty to fill vacancies created by resignations and retirements.

They include DR. HOWARD C. BERTHOLD, JR., assistant professor of psychology; KAREN L. SALLEY, instructor in psychology; ROBERT H. FOREMAN and DR. RITA CANTOR, assistant professors of mathematics; DEBORAH J. HOLMES, instructor in physical education; DR. FRED M. THAYER, JR., assistant professor of music; DR. RICHARD J. MORRIS, assistant professor of history, and JON BOGLE, assistant professor of art.

Dr. Berthold graduated from Franklin and Marshall College. He received his master of arts degree from the University of Iowa and the Ph.D. from the University of Massachusetts. He has been on the staff of Union College since 1970.

Miss Salley received the B.S. degree from Arkansas State University and the M.S. degree from The University of Arkansas, where she is presently completing her work for her Ph.D. Miss Salley has served as a teaching assistant and as an assistant in research while completing her graduate work.

Foreman completed his undergraduate work at Youngstown State University. He took graduate studies at Illinois Institute of Technology, the University of Montana, and is presently a candidate for the Ph.D. degree at the University of Northern Colorado. He has been teaching at Manchester College for the last six years.

Dr. Cantor completed her undergraduate studies at Queens College and earned her master of arts and Ph.D. at Cornell University. She has taught previously at Shippensburg State College and Cornell.

Some Brought U-Hauls!

It's always fascinating to watch students move into the residence halls each fall. It's also pretty exhausting for parents. What do they bring with them? You name it and somebody carried it into one of the buildings!

After all that exertion, some just sit down to relax a bit. The Scotti and Manzione families, and Mrs. Helen Tyllske--all from New Jersey--appear to be having a good time. Their sons are friends and roommates.

And why let a little sign slow you down?

As you struggle with your own emancipation, remember that freedom is never merely the absence of restraint. It is instead the ability to influence your own destiny in the face of whatever demands life imposes. . . . Genuine emancipation and freedom do not eliminate many legitimate demands of others upon us or immunize us from responsibility to serve others. Instead, freedom allows us to make the results of our labor our very own. It makes us truly responsible for ourselves.

At that same convocation, be directed these remarks to the faculty:

We dare not take ourselves too seriously, lest we fail to take our work and responsibilities seriously enough. Neither dare we give these students anything less than our very best to think about. We are a collegium, a community of scholars, and we must share our very best.

Addressing the Associates and Trustees, the president pondered:

How can a free society remain free if those bent on destroying freedom claim as a constitutional right the opportunity to destroy free institutions? This question, in one form or another, is continually addressed by liberal arts education. It is an acute question today. And we must fortify the liberal arts to insure that this generation too resolves the dilemma without forsaking freedom.

And:

The threat facing free inquiry and free expression and the other keystones of liberal education is not overt. This threat does not come in the form of a storm trooper who burns our books or tears down our microphones. This threat envelopes us today like a great fog. It descends as an atmosphere of anti-intellectualism and irrationalism which settles like a choking dust on nearly everything we try to do.

Although I am not yet old, I have lived long enough to see values threatened which in my student days were regarded as axioms. Now they are simply abandoned--not even opposed, simply ignored! Which values do I mean? I'm talking about the keystones of scholarship and liberal education

- (1) the ability to identify and define a problem,
- (2) the skill to analyze evidence and to allow it to speak to us on its own terms, without flagrant contamination by our bias,
- (3) I'm talking about the capacity to exercise critical judgment and to tolerate uncertainty--to function productively without being assured in advance that your efforts will succeed.
- (4) I mean the competence to achieve precision in thought and expression.
- (5) And most of all I'm talking about sensitivity to value commitments and religious faith which alone can save us from self-righteous dogmatism.

That is the new voice that is being heard on our campus, in the community and wherever Dr. Blumer travels as Lycoming's president.

He told the freshmen that they brought enough with them to see them through. We met him

Left to right: Jon Bogle, assistant professor of art; Dr. Rita Carter, assistant professor of mathematics; Dr. Richard Morris, assistant professor of history; Deborah J. Holmes, instructor in physical education; Dr. Frederick Thayer, Jr., assistant professor of music; Martine Hupin, teaching assistant in French, and Dr. Howard J. Berthold, Jr., assistant professor of psychology. About when the photograph was taken: Robert H. Foreman, assistant professor of mathematics, and Karen L. Salley, instructor in psychology.

Miss Holmes earned her B.S. degree at Pennsylvania State University. She has been employed since receiving her degree in 1972 as assistant social director at the Pocono Manor Inn. She is a graduate of Williamsport High School and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Holmes, of 582 East Mountaineer Avenue, South Williamsport.

Dr. Thayer received his bachelor of arts degree from Syracuse University, the bachelor of music from Ithaca College, and the master of music from SUNY at Binghamton. He comes to Lycoming from Cornell University, where he recently received his D.M.A. degree. He also did additional graduate work at Oberlin Conservatory of Music and the University of Toronto. He served as choir director of several churches and as choral director for community organizations while working on his graduate degrees.

Dr. Morris received the B.A. from Boston State College, the M.A. from Ohio University, and the Ph.D. from New York University. He served as teaching assistant at both universities while earning his degrees.

Bogle graduated from the Tyler School of Art, Temple University, with the B.F.A. and the M.F.A. in sculpture and also received the B.S. in education from Temple. He has taught art in public high schools in New Jersey and was a graduate assistant and an instructor in sculpture at both the Tyler School of Art and at the Tyler Abroad School of Art in Rome, Italy.

In addition to the full-time appointments, MISS MARTINE HUPIN, from the University of Reims, France, will be serving as a French teaching assistant during the current academic year.

A grant of $8,000 has been awarded to Lycoming College by the W. K. Kellogg Foundation, Battle Creek, Michigan, to finance initial participation in a library computer network. The grant will be used to purchase equipment needed to become part of the Ohio College Library Center (OCLC) computer network, including the installation of an OCLC 100 Terminal.

only a short time ago, but many have already concluded that he brought enough with him to see him--and Lycoming--through.

He has told all of us that we are going to work harder, but that he will probably work harder than any of us. We believe him.

The Editor.

Campus Leaders' Conference

A casualty of financial retrenchment for the past several years, the Campus Leaders' Conference was re-activated this fall prior to the opening of the College. Seventy-five students, faculty members and administrators assembled at Crystal Lake on September 2 and spent the next day and a half getting acquainted, attending sessions and discussing issues of concern to the entire college community. Sessions were held on student leadership and the development of leadership skills, alcohol, a student judiciary, and Title IX--the federal law designed to eliminate sex discrimination in educational programs and activities.

The conference was sponsored by Dean Jack C. Buckle and the Office of Student Services staff. Students participating on panels included Linda Lady, Beth Cogley, Tom Farmer, Tom Richey, Keith Keiser, Pat Cerillo and Chris Wysocki.

Dr. and Mrs. Blumer were present for most of the sessions, giving them an insight into the concerns of Lycoming students and some of the general problems confronting the College.

Time was allowed for recreation and informal conversations and discussions; everyone pitched in to help with mealtime details. A number of students, both male and female--and a couple of reckless administrators--made like Tarzan on what has come to be known as the "Confidence Course." (see photos)

Dean Buckle was pleased with the conference, the deliberations and the special opportunity it provided students, faculty and administrators to express themselves on a variety of issues and to get to know one another better.

The back-to-nature trio above are in various sections of the "Confidence Course." Top: Deborah Mates is negotiating the multiple swings. Middle: Rob Lavery is completing the swing. And Bottom: Carolyn Ames is in the middle of a horizontal rope climb. All returned to campus unscathed.

Enrollment Increases

According to Robert J. Glunk, college registrar, the total enrollment as of September 15, 1976, was 1401, compared with a total a year ago of 1367. When equated to full-time enrollment, this year's figure is 1337 compared with 1316 in September, 1975.

A healthy increase in freshman registrations accounts in large part for the small increase in total enrollment. This year, 409 first-year students matriculated, 404 of whom are in full-time attendance. Last year's entering class totaled 307.

Some sources point out that this year's freshmen are the last class to come from the post-war baby boom that accounted for dramatic increases in college attendance over the last fifteen years. According to the September 7 issue of The Chronicle of Higher Education, nationwide enrollments this fall appear to be setting a record with more than 11.5 million students registering for some sort of post-secondary education. While such figures are interesting, each institution must look to its own future and prepare for the time when the pool of potential freshmen and other students is smaller. Lycoming has made the adjustments necessitated by a five-year decline in enrollment and believes it is possible to stabilize that figure at approximately 1300.

If the headline above looks much larger than usual, that's because it is. And the goal for the Lycoming College Fund is also larger than usual--about 28% more than the fund raised last year. Between now and the end of December we'll be hitting you up for a contribution to the fund that is used for annual operating expenses. In fact, we're asking you right now to send your check to help us meet the regular needs of the College.

If you are a regular contributor, try to add something extra for '76. If you have never supported Lycoming before, this year is the best possible time to start. If we don't receive more and larger contributions we'll not reach our goal. But we're pretty certain that with your help we can meet or exceed it. Otherwise, we wouldn't have set such a high goal in the first place.

The Lay Academy

The cooperative efforts of Wyoming Seminary, Lycoming College, and the Wyoming Conference culminated in the establishment of The Lay Academy this summer. Experimental in nature, this unique arrangement provides an opportunity for older youths and adults to work with leaders in churchmanship, modern day religious thinking and personal decision making. The Lay Academy is a school conducted on Saturdays at Wyoming Seminary, Kingston, Pennsylvania, by three members of Lycoming's faculty. Professors John Piper, Richard Hughes and O. Thompson Rhodes will offer three courses: "The Christian Church from Antioch to Today," "Death and Bereavement" and "Religion and Science." More information is available from Mr. John Eidam, Registrar, Wyoming Seminary, Kingston, PA 18704.

No Other Way

Have you heard the one about the irate mother who was protesting and pleading to the president of a university that had turned her son down for academic reasons? Her main pitch was: "Mr. President, you must understand--my son is so stupid that if he doesn't get a college education he'll never be able to earn a living!"

Lycoming at Research Project in Israel

Lycoming College has been instrumental in launching the new Lahav Research Project near Beersheva in Israel. The project brings together archaeologists, anthropologists, and ecologists to collect information about the region from its stone age remains through its present inhabitations.

The predominant feature of the site is the ancient mound city (tell) called Tell Halif, possibly biblical Ziklag. The city was ceded to David by the Philistines and was the scene of his early exploits.

The major thrust of the first season's operations is the systematic probing of the mound to determine the periods of its past occupations. The first two weeks' work have already uncovered Israelite and Byzantine remains overlaying a large bronze age citadel.

The project's field school has drawn volunteers from 16 states, Canada, and Israel. Lycoming students participating in the program for academic credit are: Karl Peters and Peter Rutledge of Williamsport, Edward Erb and Steven Nicklas of Avis, Debbie Hoffman of Waldwick, N.J., Frances Bagshaw, Riverhead, N.Y., Suzanne Herbordt, Woodbridge, Conn., and Robert Erskine of Bainbridge Isle, Wash.

Dr. Eduardo Guerra, Professor of Religion and Coordinator of Eastern Culture and Archeology at Lycoming, has had four seasons of field experience in Israel and is serving in the project as an Area Supervisor. Dr. Guerra has been responsible for the establishment of a program in archaeology at the College.

In addition to Dr. Guerra, two recent graduates of the Lycoming program are on the project staff. John Montgomery '72, a teacher at Lewisburg High School, is an Area Supervisor. Victoria Satterthwaite '74 is an associate in photography.

Lycoming College has been designated by the Rockefeller Foundation to receive a collection of 100 records being produced to trace the social and cultural history of the United States through its music.

SOME SHOTS OF THE CAMPUS LEADERS' CONFERENCE AT CRYSTAL LAKE

Two young women were appointed to the administrative staff to fill vacancies created by resignations.

DEBRA ANN D'AGUILLO, of Bethpage, N.Y., has been appointed director of career development and placement and assistant dean of student services at Lycoming College.

Miss D'Agullo is replacing Mrs. Kathy Brooks, who resigned at the end of the 1975-76 academic year. The new assistant dean graduated in 1974 from State University of New York at Binghamton with a bachelor of arts degree in English literature and art history. She received her master of science degree in counseling and student personnel services this year from State University of New York at Albany.

She has been a student personnel intern at Vassar College since September, 1975, where she was associated with the office of career planning, the office of campus activities, and the Vassar International Student Association.

MRS. CONSTANCE D. WISER, a 1975 graduate of Lycoming College, has been named an assistant director of admissions at her alma mater. She fills a vacancy created by the resignation in May of Tony K. Schepis.

Mrs. Wiser, of 942 1/2 Elizabeth Street, has been employed since graduating from Lycoming as director of sales at the Sheraton Motor Inn, South Williamsport. She also served an internship during her final year at Lycoming at the Grumman Allied Industries, Inc., Montgomery, where she assisted the personnel manager in operating the firm's personnel office.

Mrs. Wiser, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Emerson Dickman, Sparta, N.J., is married to Steven Wiser, a teacher in the Williamsport Area School District and an assistant football coach at Lycoming. He is also a graduate of Lycoming.

Competition Opens In Fall Sports

Lycoming's veteran football team got off to a winning start when the Warriors of Coach Frank Girardi blanked Lock Haven State College, 22-0, in the opening contest for both teams on College Field.

The shutout was the second consecutive over the Bald Eagles (23-0 in 1975) as the tough Warrior defense, with 9 of 11 starters back from the unit which was ranked Number One in the nation last year in overall defense, contained the Lock Haven offense throughout most of the game.

The losers were unable to penetrate beyond the 50-yard marker until midway through the second half, and it was a bad pass from center which sailed over the head of Randy Steiner, the Warriors punter, that set up the only Lock Haven scoring threat of the day. Steiner, who kicks with his right foot, tracked down the ball and was able to get off a short left-footed punt in the face of the onrushing Bald Eagle linemen.

The Lyco defense held the Eagles for three consecutive plays, but on fourth down the Bald Eagle quarterback completed a pass for a first down deep in Lycoming territory. The Warriors then made the top defensive stand of the game on the eight-yard line when, after second and less than one yard to go, they halted two cracks at the line without giving an inch.

The defense, headed by senior defensive end Steve Weigle, sacked the quarterback six times, blocked two punts, including one which caromed out of the end zone for a safety, recovered three fumbles, and intercepted one pass. Weigle blocked both punts and recovered one of the Lock Haven bobbles. Other fumbles were recovered by junior linebacker Jim Tkach and junior middle guard Mike Prowant. Prowant also collected two of the quarterback sacks.

Lycoming's offense, although handicapped by the absence of senior tailback Phil Bellino, was able to put two touchdowns on the scoreboard in the first half on some excellent broken-field running by sophomore Kevin (The Flea) McVey and several key pass completions by sophomore quarterback Frank Morogiello, who went all the way in his first intercollegiate start. Morogiello threw touchdown passes of 19 and 13 yards to junior slotback Jim Jeffries. The one TD drive was aided by a fine 23-yard reception by Steiner, who also plays split end in addition to his punting.

McVey started in the place of the injured Bellino, who sprained an ankle in practice, and the 145-pound scatback from Philadelphia made the most of his opportunity, particularly in the first half when his running aided in the 65-yard drive for the second score. He also caught two short passes in the march for the first touchdown.

The Lock Haven game was a tuneup for a tough Middle Atlantic Conference schedule beginning with Albright, the team favored to repeat as conference champions. The Albright contest was to be followed with games at Wilkes, Sept. 25; Susquehanna (Homecoming), Oct. 2; Delaware Valley, Oct. 9; at Juniata, Oct. 16; at Fairleigh Dickinson, Oct. 23; Upsala (Parents Weekend), Oct. 30, and at Western Maryland, Nov. 6. Western Maryland and Fairleigh Dickinson are non-conference games.

SOCCER TEAM OPENS WITH VICTORY

Coach Nelson Phillips' young and relatively inexperienced Warrior soccer team opened the 1976 season on a victorious note when they bounced back from an early 1-0 deficit to capture a 2-1 win over Baptist Bible.

Two freshmen, Gary Doerr and Rich Edgar, each scored a goal to highlight the victory. Doerr's successful kick came from 12 yards out to tie the score late in the opening period, and Edgar's winning boot was a 20-yarder midway through the second half.

Phillips has only one senior on a squad which has nine lettermen, mostly juniors. Nine freshmen reported to Phillips at the opening of practice in early September, and most have been looking good in drills. Several started the game against Baptist Bible, including Edgar and Doerr.

Lettermen returning include Pat Cerillo, the only senior; juniors Bill Haines, Ron Husted, Steve Jansson, Dave Kennedy, Erman Lepley and Bob Lesnewich, and sophomores Mike Lebo and Jon Vandevander.

The Warrior booters will play a 11-match season with games remaining at Dickinson, Sept. 22; Scranton, Sept. 24; Lock Haven, Sept. 29; at Wilkes, Oct. 1; at Bloomsburg, Oct. 9; Susquehanna, Oct. 12; at Upsala, Oct. 16; Lebanon Valley, Oct. 23; Elizabethtown, Oct. 27, and at Drew, Oct. 30.

Porfirio Goncalves '75 holds the Middle Atlantic Conference record for the longest field goal, a 48-yard kick against Delaware Valley in 1972.

TENNIS COACH OPTIMISTIC

Deborah Holmes made her debut this fall as coach of the Lycoming fall tennis team with little left from last year's winning squad except the tennis court and several cans of balls. The 1975 edition of the team had finished with a fine 4-1 record, but when the coach called for candidates she found only two sophomores, Diana Petersen and Kim Eddy, who had seen any action last year. Also on hand were two other sophomores, Susan Butterworth and Susan Ivers, and five freshmen, Kim Mantoni, Theresa McDermott, Cheryl Queen, Karen Zeiders, and Elizabeth Thompson.

However, the lack of experience on the squad doesn't prevent the new coach from being optimistic in her first venture into the coaching ranks. She enthusiastically praises the talents of her young team of freshmen and sophomores and is convinced they will round into a winning combination.

The netters will have their first opportunity to respond to their coach's confidence on Monday, Sept. 20, when they entertain Mansfield on the College Field courts. They will continue with the season at Mansfield, Sept. 28; Scranton, Sept. 30; at Lock Haven, Oct. 6; at Bucknell, Oct. 8; at Wilkes, Oct. 12, and Bloomsburg, Oct. 13.

VETERANS RETURN FOR FIELD HOCKEY

Co-captains Janet Babcock and Anne Johnson, three-year veterans of competition in intercollegiate field hockey, headed a group of 19 candidates, including 12 letter winners, who reported to coach Virginia Kieser when practice sessions opened for the 1976 season. Other letter winners back to form a solid nucleus for the team include senior Beth Cogley; juniors Nancy Schadler, Cindy Kellogg, Diane Davies, Denise Durante, and sophomores Joanne Hullings, Nancy Callery, Ann Weitzel, Renee Brosius, and Joyce Leahy. Another sophomore, Carolyn Ames, is also a candidate for a position at outside.

Freshmen seeking starting positions include Jackie Winther, Laura Weas, Jennifer Stewart, Laurie Shea, Kath Dussell and Patti Levan.

The team will open a schedule of eight matches on Monday, Sept. 20, with Mansfield at home. They play three more consecutive home contests with Scranton, Sept. 30; Susquehanna, Oct. 5, and Juniata, Oct. 9, before ending on the road at Wilkes, Oct. 12; at Juniata, Oct. 16; at Mansfield, Oct. 20, and at Delaware Valley, Oct. 22.

Coach Frank Girardi poses with tailback Phil Bellino (34) and defensive end Steve Weigle (60). The two have been named permanent co-captains of the 1976 football team.

graduation, he has been a student at the School of Theology, Claremont, CA., and is currently a candidate for the degree of doctor of ministry.

H. FRANKLIN McCASLIN was ordained an elder of the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the United Methodist Church in June. He is presently serving as pastor of Bedford Valley United Methodist Church, Bedford, PA.

JOHN C. HARTZ received a master's degree in social work from Marywood College on May 30. Prior to going to Marywood, he was employed as a case worker for the Berks County Board of Assistance at Reading. He is now serving in the Medical Dept. of the Army as a social worker and has been commissioned a First Lieutenant. John and Nancy Wurz of Utica, NY, were married in June and they are now residing in San Antonio, TX.

JOSEPH SITKO, who was severely injured in a motorcycle accident while he was a student at Lycoming, continues to need a great deal of help and encouragement. Presently unable to talk or walk without help, Skip has gone through periods of progress and regression. He is now involved in a program of exercises which he must do for a total of 5 1/2 hours daily. Volunteers are desperately needed to help with these six exercise sessions per day. It has also been announced that a Skip Sitko rehabilitation fund has been opened at First National Bank of Dunellen, NJ. Gifts sent to the bank should be to the attention of William Wodrich, Jr. Skip and his parents live at 22 Lenox Ave., Greenbrook, NJ 08812.

DAVID A. HERDMAN was sorry to miss his class reunion in May, but he wrote to keep his friends up-to-date. Dave is now attending Rutgers Law School after serving four years in the military intelligence branch of the U. S. Army. Two of these years were spent in Germany during which time he traveled extensively throughout western Europe. He was also stationed at Fort Huachuca, AZ. You lived with a sense of purpose, not so much because you sensed an end to time, but rather time was too important to waste. You took the time to care about the persons you knew. Treating each student as an individual, you made each of us feel more important because you loved each one, not equally but according to our own needs. Bending low, you lifted the spirits of the discouraged and standing tall in principle you were loved in return. I will remember you as a Christian whose commitment to your Lord was deep and genuine. You witnessed for Him unashamedly wherever He presented the opportunity, bringing others to a better understanding of Him through His presence in your life. It is hard for me to say good-bye, yet knowing you are with the Lord you loved and served I can rejoice. Because you spent forty-one years here, the earth is a better place and your memory will always be loved and cherished by us who will miss you. Being confident of seeing you in 'God's new morning' and being a stronger person because you passed this way. I bid you a fond farewell. Good-bye Byron, my friend."
